

6th GRADE

TWO TO TANGO

A: I've started taking ballroom dancing lessons and I LOVE it!

B: Ballroom dancing? That's kind of nerdy don't you think?

C: Nah- what about all those big football players on "Dancing With the Stars"? They aren't nerds.

D: Girls like guys who can dance.

E: I know how to do the "worm".

F: I don't think the "worm" falls into the category of dances girls like to see guys do.

A: Last week we learned how to do the tango.

B: Ooo. That's cool. What does your partner look like?

C: [to B] I know how to do the tango. I could teach you.

D: Where did YOU learn to do the tango? From your mother?

E: I saw them doing the tango on TV- it wasn't that different from the "worm".

F: The tango doesn't look like the "worm".

A: Well, it might- if someone fell during a 'dip'.

B: Yeah, if they fell and then had trouble getting up- that might look like the "worm".

C: I can do the "worm" AND the tango. They're nothing alike.

D: Did your mother also teach you the "worm" ?

E: [to C] Why don't we BOTH do the "worm" together? That would look cool.

F: That would look like two caterpillars racing to get away from a hungry bird.

A: It's almost time for me to go to my ballroom dancing class. Anyone want to go with me?

B: Sure, I'll go. If the teacher's hot. Is the teacher hot?

C: I could teach you if you don't want to pay for lessons. Or if the teacher isn't hot.

D: Nobody wants dance lessons from you OR your mother!

E: I say we all go to the dance class and on the way I'll show everyone how to do the "worm".

F: Fine. But if we all get arrested for "PDA", don't blame me.

A: PDA? You mean Public Displays of Affection?

F: No, I mean Public Displays of ANNOYING!
